Tell the Senate to Put Workers First in the COVID-19 Bill

The COVID-19 response bill being pushed by Senate Republicans is a monumental failure. Shameless politicians are using this pandemic to give handouts to their corporate and Wall Street friends while leaving workers to fend for themselves.

Senate Democrats are pushing back against this corporate giveaway to insist on a bill that will make sure that the money goes to those who need it most - the people whose paychecks are at risk during this crisis.

Any legislation passed by Congress should require companies that receive federal relief funds to keep people on payroll. It also must make sure that companies who face bankruptcy do not use that as an excuse to do an end run around the protections union members have bargained in their contracts.

The bottom line is the Senate Republican COVID-19 bill is a security blanket for corporate executives and Wall Street. Any bill the Senate passes must put working people first. Click here to call now or dial: 1-866-937-7983

Any coronavirus relief bill must include requirements that companies use the funds to keep employees on payroll and protections for workers' contracts in bankruptcy.
